

Oilfield Service Company Transactions and Litigation

Our energy lawyers have negotiated scores of acquisitions and divestitures for publicly and privately held oilfield service companies, including through asset sales or exchanges, stock or LLC membership transfers, mergers or otherwise. We regularly direct and participate in the due diligence examinations of the target companies and acquirers, negotiate and draft the purchase and sale agreements, negotiate, draft and review credit agreements, mortgages, financing statements and security agreements and render third-party legal opinions.

In addition, we routinely deal with oil and gas well lien issues, litigate collection matters and assist lien debtors and creditors with workouts. We also frequently draft and negotiate master service agreements and similar contracts between service companies and oil and gas companies.

Several of our attorneys are frequently called upon to speak at institutes and industry events that address the legal and business issues concerning oilfield service companies.
